

WALKING IN SNOW

RETREAT 2027

*When we become quiet enough,
nature begins to speak to us.
And when we listen,
we remember what is already
within us.*

Between Stillness and Vastness

Sometimes we need distance from the familiar to reconnect with what truly matters. For one week, we leave the rhythm of everyday life behind and embark on a journey of stillness, movement and conscious encounters with ourselves. Step by step, we explore the winter mountain landscape on ski tours. A structured balance of nature experience, meditations, silence and exchange creates the space for inner clarity, presence and reflection. The carefully designed daily schedule allows for personal growth, new perspectives and a deeper connection with your own experience.

Everything may be, nothing must be.

The mountains support us in becoming simpler. The stillness helps us to be more present. The community reminds us that personal development is not a solitary path, but can also be a shared journey.

*Nature
is a silent teacher.
It does not ask questions and yet gives
all the answers.*

MEDITATION

Guided and open meditations – all levels and worldviews are welcome.

SKI TOURS

Ski touring in a winter wonderland.

SILENCE

Times of silence and space for reflection and questions.

COMMUNITY

A shared learning journey – on the trail and beyond.

The Teachers

TWO PATHS. A SHARED VISION.

Denis Robberechts

Denis Robberechts is the founder of the meditation community Dharma Nature and has been teaching meditation and mindfulness in Europe, Morocco and India for many years. After several years in India, an intensive self-retreat practice, studies of classical Indian music and longer periods of retreat, he developed a clear and non-dogmatic approach to meditation. His teaching is characterised by simplicity, presence and an invitation to immediate self-experience. Denis conveys meditation as a path to meet life with openness, honesty and without judgement.

Robert Kerneza

Robert Kerneza is a state-certified mountain and ski guide with decades of experience in the alpine environment. Alongside his extensive knowledge of ski touring, weather, snow conditions and safety, he brings a deep connection to the mountains and nature. In the Walking in Snow Retreat, he shares his expertise with great professionalism and a calm, mindful approach, combining nature experience and inner development in a unique way.

Robert and Denis have been leading the Walking in Snow Retreat together since 2013 and form a well-established team.

Growing together in stillness.
